More clubs go live with Golf Club Network

Telford, 21st October 2010 - As the traditional golf season slows down the team at Golf Club Network are as busy as ever putting live more websites, taking the number of live clubs to well over 150 with plenty more in development.

Developed by Gemini Network Media and endorsed by the English Golf Union and Golf Union of Wales, Golf Club Network is working with clubs throughout the UK to ensure they take full advantage of online marketing opportunities.

Some of the clubs whose new Golf Club Network websites were launched last month include:

- Alsager
- Enfield
- New Malton
- West End

From initial build to post implementation, all Golf Club Network clients receive unlimited support from our Account Managers, whether it be best practice advice or technical assistance.

By choosing to work with Golf Club Network, these clubs join an ever-growing portfolio of clubs who have stepped up their marketing by creating a professional online presence to meet the needs of members and visitors alike.

Golf Club Network offers a range of design styles to meet the needs of any golf club who wish to market their club to the growing number of golfers searching for their next game online, while streamlining member communications with simple to use email software.
